Govt. awaits Visa Free to New Zealand announcement

By: Nanai Taofiga Laveitiga Tuiletufuga

Government is eagerly awaiting the official announcement from the New Zealand Government on their proposed Visa free entry for Samoans.

Per recent announcement via 1News, New Zealand's Immigration Minister Michael Wood confirmed that he hoped to have the change signed off within the next couple of months.

According to the new reports, the intended free visa entry is designed to cover those travelling often, including for business and diplomatic purposes

Immigration Minister Wood confirmed he hoped to have the change signed off within the next couple of months.

The change would mean those travelers would end up on a rolling visa allowing them to bypass having to reapply each time they visit New Zealand.

Senior Government officials on the local front have confirmed that Wellington had informed Government of the proposed free entry arrangements but cannot comment further on the record due to long standing policies until authorized by Prime Minister Fiamē Naomi Mataafa who's also the Foreign Affairs and Immigration Minister, mum is the word.

The Prime Minister is overseas on official duties and will be returning home early next week.

Immigration matters which include entry visas were among the issues under discussion during the bi-lateral talks in Apia and in Auckland between Prime Minister Fiamē and New Zealand's Prime Minister Jacinta Ardern earlier this year.

N.U.S. graduates targeted by Star Kist Samoa canneries

By: Marc Membrere

The American Samoa based Star Kist Samoa canneries is eyeing the National University of Samoa's Technical and Vocational Education Training (T.V.E.T) graduates.

A partnership to formalize employment opportunities between the two parties is in the works with a delegation from Star Kist Samoa meeting N.U.S. Vice Chancellor and President Aiono Professor Alec Ekeroma and his team earlier this month at Papaigalagala.

According to Aiono in an exclusive interview with the Savali Newspaper, the territory's largest employer with over 2,000 workers on their payroll, (over 95% Samoan citizens) are interested in hiring plumbers, electricians, carpenters, welders etc.

With the same token, Aiono stressed that the priority is meeting Samoa's human resources needs in the trade industry but the attractive wages offered by American Samoa due to the strength of the U.S. dollar is a challenge.

More Tests after World Cup success; Toa Samoa calls out rugby league bosses

By: Nanai Taofiga Laveitiga Tuiletufuga

Samoa, Tonga, Fiji and Papua New Guinea have joined forces in calling out the big bosses of World Rugby League to grant more international fixtures for the Pacific Islands as a lead up to the next World Rugby League Cup Championships.

And the four Pacific Rugby League Unions are patiently awaiting a decision, reveals Samoa Rugby League President Tagaloa Fa'afouina Su'a in an exclusive interview with the Savali Newspaper.

Like past World Cups, the Pacific Islands have never been afforded the luxury for international fixtures and test games leading up to the Cup competitions. And as a result, teams are given a couple of weeks to assemble its team from around the globe before kick-off.

This was evidence this year when Toa Samoa lost her opening Pool Game to England 60-10 but bounced back with sheer patriotism, guts and Samoan pride to serve humble pie to her critics by reaching the finals and avenging their pool loss to humble England, the World Cup host nation.

Building on their success, Toa Samoa has the backing of our Pacific allies with Fiji, Tonga and Papua New Guinea calling out the world rugby league fraternity to give the Pacific nations a level playing field with test fixtures between now and the next World Cup.

Also united is their allegiance to represent their respective countries if fortunate to be selected to compete in the next World Cup.

And Toa Samoa players are leading the charge and have pledged to keep playing for the Pacific nation.

After shocking Tonga and England to reach the final, Toa Samoa went down 30-10 to Australia at Old Trafford, Manchester with the crowd mostly supporting Toa Samoa.

However, the result was less important than the legacy the team has created and players spoke afterwards about wanting to play more international matches and taking a Test to the US, which has a large Samoan population.

"It's about spreading the game and I think we touched on it during the week, about (movie star) The Rock being able to give a shout out to the team," Samoa captain Junior Paulo said.

"Seeing as he has got 250 million followers (on social media), I am sure everyone knows what rugby league is now.

"Although we have a busy schedule throughout the year, we need to find a way on how we can block these games out for international rugby league moving forward because we have seen how much it means around the world."

With street parades and motorcades in support of the team in many cities in Australia, New Zealand and the United States, star playmaker Jarome Luai believes Samoa must play more regularly.

"I am sure there are some guys on our board who are really going to push for more games, and look around the world at what we have done," Luai said.

"We have grown the game in a sense, and if they want to keep growing the game they need to keep playing Samoa international games."

After the match, players sung, prayed and enjoyed a celebratory drink in their Old Trafford dressing shed, where they were joined by Kangaroos stars, Tino Fa'asuamaleaui, Jeremiah Nanai and Murray Taulagi.

Asked about the possibility of some of the Samoa squad playing for Australia at the next World Cup in France in 2025, Paulo pointed out that there were also Kangaroos players eligible for Samoa.

"We could have done that this World Cup but this is part of the reason why we chose to represent our heritage," he said.

"There are guys in the Australian team who are eligible to play for Samoa as well, but they made a decision to represent Australia and hats off to them, because they have got their own reasons."

Luai said it was overwhelming to see the support for Samoa from "every corner of the earth".

"Just being a part of that is something special and it is good to see Samoans around the world unified to one cause," he said.

"I am just really blessed and grateful to be a part of this team and with what we have done the last couple of weeks I think we have changed the game globally.

"We want to inspire the next generation and I am sure kids in Samoa want to chuck on that Toa Samoa jersey and be the next Joey Sua'ali'i or Brian To'o. That is something special."

More flights, more tourists, more bucks for Airport Authority and Tourism Sector looms

By: Nanai Taofiga Laveitiga Tuiletufuga

The recent drought of tourists in Samoa, no thanks to the uninvited COVID19 pandemic is slowly and quietly hiding her ugly and menacing effects with the return of international cruise ships bringing in thousands of visitors.

And the Samoa Airport Authority is just as ecstatic with recent announcements by Air New Zealand and Fijian Air of additional flights during the Christmas and New Year Season.

Air New Zealand is adding two more flights a week starting in December to increase their scheduled weekly flights to 12.

And with an estimated 300 incoming passenger per flight, that's 3,600 returning relative visiting families in Samoa and visitors entering the country during the festive season.

Fiji Airways is also on board targeting the Australian Market.

"With demand increasing from Australia, Fiji Airways (Fiji) has announced it is adding more services to its neighboring islands of Tonga and Samoa," the airline announced this week,

The new services give Australians more options to travel to these tropical islands, connecting via Fiji's hub of Nadi International Airport from Melbourne, Sydney and Brisbane.

Fiji Airways managing director and CEO Andre Viljoen said that with the peak travel season approaching, the airline is excited to offer Australians more South Pacific destinations. He told Travel Weekly:

The new services from Nadi include twice weekly overnight to Tonga and three weekly overnight flights to Samoa. These are in addition to the current three times weekly to Tonga and four times weekly to Samoa daylight flights. Flightradar24.com data shows these routes usually operate with a Boeing 737 MAX 8, although an ATR 72-600 is sometimes used.

The average flight on the 737 MAX 8 between Nadi and Tonga is around 1:15 hours and to Samoa around 1:40 hours.

Fiji Airways since the borders were opened in August have been operating 6 scheduled weekly flights to Samoa including the weekly flight to the United States via Honolulu Hawaii.

While Qantas Airlines, is back in the fold with two weekly flights originating from Brisbane and to Sydney on the return leg.

Virgin Air is also anticipated to return to Faleolo next year in March, according to informed sources.

For the Samoa Airport Authority, (SAA) the return of international flights and visitors is a long overdue lifeline that they have been praying for devotedly.

While Samoa's borders were closed, SAA staff voluntarily accepted a 50% pay cut to stay afloat and maintain services.

"To say, we're overjoyed is an understatement," responded SAA Chief Executive Silimanai Ueta Jr. Solomona.

And he's primary target is to ensure that scheduling is on the dot to minimize any disruptions for the travelling public.

"There's goes our Christmas and New Year holidays which is nothing new for staff especially after surviving the COVID19 turbulences, I have full confidence that our staff will perform exceptionally well," he complimented.

And SAA's comeback has just started with Silimanai and team on the hunt to attract more airlines to fly to Samoa.

They have a strategic plan and air service program designed to provide discounts and concessions for airlines partnering with SAA by flying to Samoa.

Dubbed the "Air Navigation Services" the incentives including discounted rates and concessions in landing fees and other associated services for the initial 3 years of operating schedule flights to Faleolo.

"It's early days yet but Rome was not build in one day," says an optimistic SAA Chief Executive.

N.U.S. graduates targeted by Star Kist Samoa canneries

"Better wages than what we can offer locally have been offered," Aiono told the Savali Newspaper.

"We will assist those graduates by linking them across to Starkist who are planning to be in country during our TVET graduation in December."

It's no dark secret that the lucrative minimum wages offered by American Samoa and dictated by Federal Law is irresistible. For instance, Samoa's minimum wage as of 2022 is $3:00 an hour compared to American Samoa's minimum wage for the Fishing Canning/Processing Industry US$5.56 or close to $18 tala.

But the opportunities provided doesn't just apply to T.V.E.T. students, Aiono revealed.

He said the conversation which started after the Atoa o Samoa Executive meetings between the two Governments is continuing with other departments in the territory showing interest for potential recruitment partnerships. For instance, the territory's Department of Education wants to address their teachers and training needs and this will on the agenda in the next meeting scheduled for December, said the N.U.S. Vice Chancellor.

"N.U.S. graduates together with qualified and skilled personnel with management and accounting degrees are also targeted by American Samoa," he added.

The Atoa o Samoa meeting held between the Samoa and American Samoa government created a renewed atmosphere for the Governments to refocus and revisit issues of interest which offers mutual benefits for residents of the two Samoas.

Post COVID19 Cruise Strategy launched

By: Marc Membrere

The Samoa Tourism Authority (STA) has launched the Samoa Cruise Tourism Strategy 2021/22 -2026/27 to get them ready for 12-14 cruise visits expected to be heading to Samoa in 2023 and 2024.

The strategy, according to STA Chief (CEO) Pativaine Petaia-Tevita focuses on addressing recovery to the Samoa cruise tourism industry.

In 2014 – 2019 there were on average 14 port calls per annum with an economic injection of approximately $5.2 million tala per year.

With the spread of the Covid-19 Pandemic across the globe and Samoa the cruise tourism lost an estimated WST$4.7 million in earnings from the cancellation of 27 cruise ship port calls and loss of spend by 34,000 passengers between March 2020 and December 2021.

“From a recovery perspective, the strategy outlines two possible scenarios which forecast between three and seven port calls a year up to 2027, with a total economic injection of $7.4 million to $11.4 million tala annually,” she said.

“I am very happy to share that cruise timetables published online currently indicate that there will be 12 to 14 port calls to Samoa during 2023 to 2024.”

The STA Chief continued that the arrival of more cruise ships is encouraging and reassuring for a positive future of Samoa cruise tourism.

Pativaine also stressed the plan is a dedicated framework for this very industry, with an overarching objective to facilitate tourism recovery and enhance the economic impact of cruise tourism through key policy and strategic responses over the next five years.

The five Cruise Tourism Policy and Strategic Policies in the Strategy are:

1. COVID Preparedness and Readiness
2. Market Promotions
3. Product Development

The strategy was launched last week Friday

4. Cruise Tourism Data and Information
5. Accessibility

The strategy’s executive summary states ‘the outlook for cruise tourism for the Pacific region and Samoa in particular, is highly dependent on the recovery of cruise operations in Australia since the lifting of the cruise ban in April 2022 and the full reopening of New Zealand cruise in 2023’.

This strategy is also the first for the sub-sector with the overall strategic objective being “ensuring Samoa’s readiness for resumption of cruises to facilitate tourism recovery and enhance economic impact of cruise tourism”.

Seventeen (17) activities are identified under each Policy and Strategic Responses to be implemented over the Strategy period at a total cost of $1.56 million tala.

The resourcing for these activities will be from a combination of development funding and technical assistance from key partners and recurrent funding from the STA annual budget.

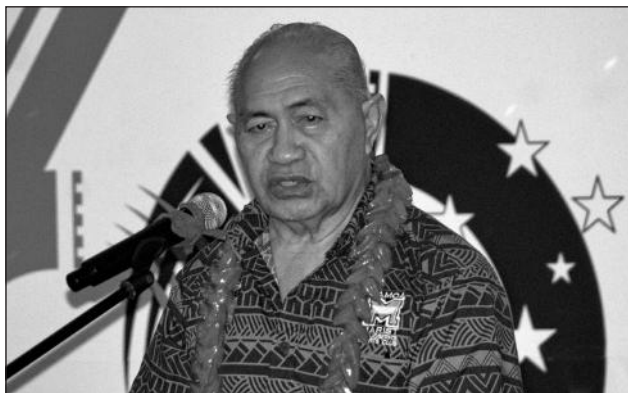

And the operationalization of the plan will be under the general oversight of the Sea Cruise Working Group together with other governance arrangements as currently under STA mandate.

The success of the Samoa Cruise Tourism Strategy 2021/2022-2026/2027 depends on collaboration and cooperation with MoH as the key Government Agency responsible for Samoa’s national COVID Response Plan, Government agencies responsible for port operations and border control, industry bodies, international and regional cruise associations, and private operators.

Joining the STA CEO at the Strategy Launching held at the Lava Hotel Conference Room last week included STA Chair Tuuilili Alise Stunnenberg, and United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (UNESCAP) Sub-regional Office for the Pacific Andie Fong Toy.

Church of Nazarene celebrates 60 years in Samoa

By: Marc Membrere

The Government has gifted Church of Nazarene with a $20,000 birthday gift to mark the commemoration of their 60th Anniversary since its establishment in Samoa.

The American based church arrived in the country in 1962 and set up churches at Lotopa, Ululoloa, Falelima, Vaitele, and Falelaunui.

The celebrations were held at Ululoloa at the churches headquarters on Wednesday and was well attended by; the Council of Deputies Le Mamea Ropati Mualia, Acting Prime Minister Leatinu'u Wayne So'oialo, Global Church General Superintendent Dr. David Graves, and leader of the opposition party Tuilaepa Dr. Sailele Malielegaoi.

The official ceremony progressed with a parade from Tuanaimato towards Ululoloa, and then followed with a prayer service attended by members of the church and guests.

Acting Prime Minister Leatinu'u welcomed the delegation from America and thanked them for shining the light of Jesus Christ through the Worldwide Ministry, and winning souls for the Kingdom of God.

"Today marks the commemoration of 60 years of the Church of the Nazarene's evangelical presence in Samoa," he said.

"It is indeed a milestone to celebrate, and a testament of perseverance and commitment of the past and present leaders, and members of the church to respond to its global mission underpinned by the Great Commission of Jesus Christ, to go and make disciples of all nations."

Leatinu'u said the commemoration coincides with the celebration of Samoa's 60th Independence Anniversary.

"The theme for this year-long celebrations - to sail with faith," he stressed.

"Let us continue to sail with faith, for the Lord has promised us, that He will never leave nor forsake us."

WANTED- More police and prison officers

By: Jasmine Netzler-lose

For a secure and safe Samoa, the Ministry of Police and Prisons should have a working and active force of 1,000 as 120 vacancies reflect, according to latest data from the Deputy Police Commissioner Papali'i Monalisa Tiai-Keti.

To that effect, recruitment to fill the vacancies is in the planning.

The latest advertisement is enticing interested applicants to join the force.

And the vacancies are for Corrections Officers for a pay grade a little over $16,000 and if hired will contribute to making communities safer by providing effective and efficient custodial services through an enabling environment within the prisons that promote the safe, secure and fair treatment of prisoners.

Papali'i confirmed the ministry currently is training more than 50 recruits and are scheduled to graduate by the end of this month.

That will surely aid in boosting the Ministry's numbers which employs a total of more than 873 staff that are distributed across the country in Upolu and Savai'i at different outposts.

"The Ministry's approved structure is 1000 Police Officers however it is only over 800," she said.

This however has not deterred the Ministry accepting officers resigning or moving to other Government ministries for work.

But confirmed more will be required to ensure the security operations that will be executed at the Commonwealth Heads of Government Meeting (CHOGM) in 2024 hosted in Samoa will ensure safety and protection of participants.

Moataa mangroves under the microscope

MOU SIGNED: Asi Tuitaga James Blakelock and Associate Professor Bill Leggat sealing their relationship with a Memorandum of Understanding.

By: Jasmine Netzler-lose

The village of Moataa this week hosted a group from the University of Newcastle in Australia to implement a research study on the Mangrove reservations in the area.

During their 3-day stay in the country the group consisting of 2 staff and 18 students of the university will be exposed to various cultural and traditional activities planned by the village to create a thorough experience for the visitors.

On Wednesday the Moataa Congregational Christian Church Hall (EFKS) hosted a special welcoming programme for the group.

Reverend Semikueva Fa'atoafe said the welcoming prayer, soon followed by an Ava ceremony and the signing of a Memorandum of Understanding (M.O.U.) between the village and the University officially sealing their sister partnership status.

The Reverend based his sermon on "Unity in Diversity" and made reference to the application of Christianity and harmony to establish the partnership of togetherness being one despite differences, skin colour and languages.

He urged the visitors to utilize the opportunity that has been made available and that will benefit both the students and the village of Moataa.

The Reverend encouraged the group to make time to pay visits to the matai of Moataa, women committee and members of the community to build the relationship so that there can be an exchange of culture, knowledge and spirituality.

He finished off with the next time the group visit Samoa they will no longer be visitors to the village of Moataa but family.

Lenatai Victor Fafoi Tamapua who organised the partnership revealed the visit has been in the pipeline for some time.

In fact, he said the plans for the University to visit Moataa was something that was initiated back in 2019.

It has taken three years as a result of the Covid-19 but he revealed the main reason behind the idea was for a group of students from the University to carry out research study on the villages Mangroves known to them as the 'living laboratory'.

It was initiated during a visit by one of the Professors from the University at the time who came to Samoa to attend a SPREP meeting.

Lenatai said after the meeting he was approached by this Professor who relayed to him this was his wish.

Another group from the university have been scheduled to arrive into Samoa next year February for the same purposes.
