P.S.C. review on public servants continues to roll out

By: Marc Membrere

Chairman of the Public Service Commission (P.S.C.) Nonu Lemauga Vaai has confirmed that the current workforce review of all 17 Government Ministries is planned to be completed after Phase 3 this year.

Phase 1 of the review came to a close on Friday, the head of the Public Service revealed to the Savali Newspaper in response to an email seeking an update into the review.

But, Nonu explained that the review was initially planned to conclude in October but it is likely now that it would take longer – in fact it might take up the rest of 2023 depending on the completion of all 3 phases of the initiative.

Phase 2 of the review is on “Organizational Functional Review” he confirmed.

And, “the Phase 2 which is the full functional review per Ministry is planned for 6-8 months, to allow for unforeseen events i.e., unexpected delays on information gathering / work site visits etc.”.

The intention according to Nonu is to “finish early if all goes to plan with the Ministries”.

As the review of all 17 Ministries proceed, advertised vacant Government positions from Officer to Principal level are currently on a “Freeze”.

Asked when it will be lifted, Nonu said it will be considered based on the findings of the review.

“Otherwise, at the moment all requests are considered on a case by case basis in relation to Ministries key work priorities,” he says.

Nonu explained that the review scope broadly covers key information gathering for Recruitment Freeze Review, the Workforce Data for Planning & Forecast, and Performance Management / Work Environment Culture Review.

Free inter-island vehicle fares for Senior Citizens?

By Jasime Netzler - Iose

Should Senior Citizens registered with the Samoa National Provident Fund receive free inter-island vehicle privileges between Upolu and Savaii?

Affirmative echoes the Leader of the Opposition Human Rights Protection Party, Lauofo Fonotoe Pierre Lauofo in Parliament Tuesday this week.

Lauofo’s call on Parliament to consider free vehicle fares is suitable and compliment the free boat fares for the elderly also funded by SNPF.

The former Deputy Prime Minister also reminded the House that a great number of senior citizens have vehicles purchased by their families overseas and a free ride is a luxury which should be entertained to ensure travel privileges for our grandparents and great grandparents are not restricted.

Government has accepted the verbal request and has assured the Opposition Leader that they will look into it.

$830,000 plus facelift for Vaia’ata Prison in Savaii

The project compliments Police and Prisons Minister Faualo Lefau Harry Schuster “will no doubt have a substantial influence in the works for the Ministry in terms of transport, given the budget constraints for the Ministry.”

“This is a tremendous improvement for additional assets to the Ministry to assist with the service delivery of its core functions to the people of Samoa as well as our international partners.

I believe we can all agree that crimes and calls for Police assistance has increased significantly hence the need for additional and appropriate resources such as these new vehicles to assist the Ministry,” continued the Minister.

Faualo also acknowledged the support of Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of Japan to Samoa, Keisuke Senta.

“Projects of this kind will greatly assist the Ministry with its daily operations as well as ensuring budget savings for our Ministry to fund other needed priority needs,” complimented the Law Enforcement Minister.

S.N.P.F. $200,000 Mobile App launched

By: Marc Membrere

And this is simply something that no doubt has contributors not only excited but thankful.

First the NPF Portal is on line eliminating members from skipping working hours to stand in line to your entitlement, no more having to stand in tight ques for special dividends, no more unanswered phone calls just to check what your contribution balance, and to find out your loan status.

But they have another new tool that is expected to ensure that NPF contributors are better served and have even better easy access to their accounts and services available.

And that comes with the launch of its S.N.P.F Mobile App.

For many of those who have yet to be introduced to the joys of such technological tools, an application (app) is a self-contained software that can be downloaded on your mobile phones and desktop devices and allows for users to perform specific tasks

So, by simply downloading the S.N.P.F. service on Google Play Store and Apple's App Store, 36, 739 contributors of the fund can now access their accounts, top up loans, access special payments, view updated information of products available and contribution withdrawals.

Designed by General Capital Technologies Limited with a funding of WST$262,670.56 from the United Nations Development Programme (U.N.D.P.) under its One UN Social Protection for Resilience Joint Programme the App is expected to quickly gain popularity amongst customers.

And to take things to the next level, members can now request an appointment either in our Upolu or Savaii Offices through the app.

So, all one needs to do is simply download the app, log into your S.N.P.F account and enjoy the convenience.

And the builder and S.N.P.F. management have also taken serious consideration of security measures.

So, aside from using a password for logging in to the app, you can sign in with a Fingerprint or Face ID if the phone has the capability for it.

Unfortunately, the app only offers services in the English language, but worry not the Samoan language will soon be added according to S.N.P.F.

Minister of Finance Mulipola Anarosa Ale Molioo officially launched the application at the Taumeasina Island Resort on Monday and commended the staff of SNPF for their hardwork.

"We live in unprecedented times and as such SNPF will endeavor to take every possible opportunity to enhance its digital transformation journey," she said.

"I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to all who have contributed to the development and implementation of this project."

She commended all who took part in the project for their efforts and support especially the time and commitment to ensure S.N.P.F. continues to offer fast and efficient services to all members.

China provides free medical services for S.V.S.G.

Bottleneck: $2.5million Stimulus Package for Tourism

By: Marc Membrere

The $2.5 million tala Stimulus Package to simulate the local tourism industry is experiencing some serious hick-ups with the beneficiaries unable to access the funding due to its unfriendly eligibility guidelines.

The setbacks was raised during a brainstorming meeting between the Samoa Tourism Authority and stakeholders Tuesday this week.

According to STA Chief Executive Pativaine Petaia Tevita, accommodation operators have registered concerns that the new requirement to obtain business licenses is preventing them from completing their application to access the funds.

“One of the main issues now is our product especially our accommodation properties, not 100 percent of our accommodation properties are in full operation,” she revealed.

“Some of them are partial, some of them are fully opened but they have yet to reach the standard that we would like them to be at right now.”

And although the stimulus package was approved to ensure that tourism business operators were provided with some form of adequate support to get them back on their feet it seems like the problem faced by many of the operators now is not meeting the eligibility criteria to access the funds.

According to the STA Chief one of the eligibility criteria of the stimulus package is a current business license, and according to her, due to the new requirements of obtaining a license some people are finding it difficult to obtain one.

The industry had also suffered the loss of employees, which has been the same for all sectors, and mainly employees have been lost to the RSE Scheme, while the cost of flights still remains another issue for the industry she further elaborated.

She expressed her hopes for the industry to go back to normal as soon as possible but confirmed Samoa has recovered a 60% growth in passenger arrivals compared to the COVID-19 period.

“We hope for that percentage to be increased further before the end of the financial year in June.”

She further reiterated that the hope is that with the stimulus package currently rolled out at the moment and the way businesses are adapting to life after COVID-19 and travelers are seen to want to return to our shores “the recovery will be much sooner than we had anticipated”.

Samoaan tourism bouncing back, but recovery ongoing

(RNZI PACIFIC)- Samoa's visitor arrivals have boosted the country's tourism sector recovery rate to 60 percent, but the Samoa Tourism Authority (STA) believes more time is needed for full recovery.

According to Chief Executive Officer Pativaine Petaia-Tevita, who spoke to the recent Samoa Tourism Industry Meet 2023.

The STA boss said one of the challenges faced by the industry is that accommodation properties are not 100 percent back in full operation.

Pativaine said some of the operators are partially opened while some are fully opened but have yet to come up to standard, and some operators have complained about the new licensing requirements, which is delaying the roll out of the latest stimulus package.

Another issue is the "across the board" loss of employees, especially to the seasonal workers scheme (RSE).

The tourism operators also expressed concerns at the high cost of airfares to Samoa.

"The main reason is because there is only one local airline operating flights and there's no competition. Fiji Airways has been of help but it is not enough.

"In other countries where they have their own aircraft, the airfares are much cheaper," Pativaine said.

The Authority is hoping that the 60 percent recovery rate will be given a further boost before the end of the current financial year in June.

Samoa fully reopening its borders on 1 August 2022 after two-and-a-half years shutdown due to covid-19.

Samoa, Fiji welcome China-aided agricultural technical assistance

(PRESS RELEASE)- This photo taken on March 10, 2023 in Nadi, Fiji, shows Chinese technicians introducing agricultural technology to Fijian people. (Xinhua/Zhang Yongxing)

China has launched multiple agricultural technical assistance projects in countries including Samoa and Fiji.

NADI, Fiji, March 13 (Xinhua) -- Samoa and Fiji warmly welcomed the China-aided agricultural technical assistance projects as they have helped the South Pacific island nations to further boost their economic and social development in recent years.

Located at the southward extension of the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI), the Pacific island nations (PICs) are important economic and trade partners of China. Currently, China has inked Memorandums of Understanding on the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) cooperation with all 10 PICs with diplomatic relations with China.

China has launched multiple agricultural technical assistance projects in these countries, including Samoa and Fiji. It has helped PICs improve agricultural production capacity and food security by sending agricultural experts, building demonstration farms, training model farmers, promoting improved crop varieties and providing technical support.

According to Liu Zhiwen, leader of the China-Samoa Agricultural Technical Aid Project, agriculture is a key economic pillar in Samoa with over 80 percent of families engaged in different forms of agricultural production.

Initiated in 2010, the project, which was divided into five phases with the latest being launched in March 2022, aimed to help Samoan farmers enhance their sustainable livelihoods. China has sent experts from Hunan province to Samoa to set up demonstration farms so that Samoans could learn how to increase productivity and promote sustainable agriculture.

On the sidelines of this year's Pacific Week of Agriculture and Forest, which was just concluded in Fiji's third largest city of Nadi on Friday night, Liu told Xinhua that the project has so far proven to be a great success because through the project, modern agricultural technology facilities on greenhouse cultivation, high-yield fruit cultivation, organic fertilizer and soil improvement were set up in Samoa.

Besides the demonstration farm near Samoa's capital city of Apia, Chinese experts have also established nine agricultural stations, cultivated over 100 model farms and provided agricultural training to over 10,000 farmers, he said.

For his part, Samoa's Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries Laauli Leuatea Polataivao Fosi told Xinhua that the island nation is so pleased to have the support from the Chinese government to develop its agricultural sector.

The minister voiced his satisfaction over the project which has led to the great improvement of Samoa's agricultural production.

While believing that Samoa will benefit from the BRI, he thanked China for being Samoa's brother and hoped to expand areas of cooperation which can help Samoa's economic and social development.

Meanwhile, China has set up a Juncao technical demonstration center in Nadi, Fiji, and provided Juncao technical assistance to Fiji and Papua New Guinea.

Under Article IV of the IMF's Articles of Agreement, the IMF holds bilateral discussions with members, usually every year. In the context of the 2023 Article IV consultation with Samoa, the Staff Report prepared by a staff team of the IMF for the Executive Board's consideration on March 8, 2023, following discussions that ended on January 27, 2023, with the officials of Samoa on economic developments and policies.

- After a three-year recession driven by the Covid-19 pandemic, the Samoan economy is experiencing a strong recovery driven by the return of tourism.

- An expansionary fiscal stance remains appropriate if directed toward higher public investment, which will help the economy return to pre-pandemic activity levels.

- With the economy recovering, a gradual normalization of the Central Bank of Samoa's highly accommodative monetary stance is appropriate, to contain further increases in private borrowing and build up policy space to respond to future shocks. INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND

KEY ISSUES & RECOMMENDATIONS

Context: After a three-year recession triggered by the COVID-19 pandemic, the economy is recovering, boosted by the reopening of tourism. However, higher global commodity prices briefly raised inflation to double-digit rates.

Disciplined fiscal policies, buoyant revenue and remittances, and donor support have contributed to fiscal and external stability.

The banking system has remained resilient to the economic downturn, although there has been some deterioration in asset quality.

Pressures on correspondent banking relationships continue.

With the pandemic-driven decline in investment, as well as rising numbers of seasonal workers abroad, output is projected to remain well below pre-pandemic trends.

Main policy recommendations: After two years of under-spending, an expansionary fiscal stance is needed to support the recovery and avoid long-term scarring through increased public investment and other growth-enhancing expenditure.

Given high inflation, this can be partially counterbalanced by the Central Bank of Samoa immediately but gradually unwinding the accommodative monetary stance. If the economic recovery stalls—including if the fiscal expansion doesn't materialize as planned—monetary tightening could proceed at a slower pace. Support to households provided by state-owned enterprises (SOEs) via low utility tariffs should be channeled through the budget to make the costs transparent and preserve their capacity to make needed investments.

Sustainable growth and diversification can be complemented by ramping up training programs to build a pipeline of skilled labor and improving the broader business environment to take greater advantage of regional trade and economic integration agreements.

With long-term risks of debt distress remaining high, gradual fiscal consolidation is appropriate.

This should be through raising revenue, which would also create space for the needed strengthening of social safety nets and higher investment in climate resilience.

Recent efforts to contain fiscal risks at SOEs are welcome and should be continued.

For public financial institutions, their mandates need to be reviewed, and regulation and supervision should be stepped up.

Financial sector reforms are advancing—including the national digital ID, credit registry, and Know-Your Customer utility—and their prompt implementation would help facilitate credit intermediation, increase financial inclusion, and sustain access to the international payments system.

ADB Provides $38 Million to Help Kiribati, Samoa, Solomon Islands, Tonga Respond to Disasters

MANILA, PHILIPPINES — The Asian Development Bank (ADB) has approved $38 million in contingent disaster financing to help Kiribati, Samoa, Solomon Islands, and Tonga respond to disasters triggered by natural hazards and health emergencies.

The support comes from the fourth phase of the Pacific Disaster Resilience Program and will provide Kiribati with an $8 million grant, Samoa with a $10 million grant, Solomon Islands with a $5 million grant and a $5 million loan, and Tonga a $10 million grant. All four countries have made strong progress on building the resilience of their institutions, which build on the previous phases of the program.

“The Pacific Disaster Resilience Program will provide the participating countries with quick disbursing, flexible budget support for urgent relief, and early recovery from disasters,” said ADB Director General for the Pacific Leah Gutierrez.

Kiribati, Samoa, Solomon Islands, and Tonga are highly vulnerable to the impacts of natural hazards and health emergencies. ADB’s support to the Pacific under previous phases of the program has helped strengthen policy, legislative, and institutional arrangements to manage climate and disaster risk, including health emergencies.

The program fills a financing gap common in the Pacific during disasters, providing a predictable and quick-disbursing source of financing for early response and recovery activities.

The project is financed by a $5 million concessional loan from ADB’s ordinary capital resources and a $33 million grant from the Asian Development Fund (ADF). The ADF provides grants to ADB’s poorest and most vulnerable developing member countries.

ADB is committed to achieving a prosperous, inclusive, resilient, and sustainable Asia and the Pacific, while sustaining its efforts to eradicate extreme poverty. Established in 1966, it is owned by 68 members—49 from the region.
