“At the end of the day, it’s about serving the people of the country,” confesses the Minister of Health, Valasi Luapitofanua To’ogamaga Tafito Selesele as he addresses the progress of the latest negotiations between the Public Service Commission (PSC), the Ministry of Health (MoH), and the Samoa Medical Association.

Ironically, a strike by the SMA was never in the books or in the negotiations between the Government and the medical doctors. However the option tabled by the SMA if they are unhappy with the brainstorming outcome is a “work to rule” which will see doctors reporting for duties from 8: am to 4:00 pm Monday to Friday as prescribed by their working contracts with MoH.

Compensation for additional or overtime hours will be subject to negotiations with the Ministry.

For Specialists, their overtime compensation will be replaced by a Responsibility Allowance which is equivalent to 60% of their wages payable regardless of whether they work overtime or not.

The medical profession is reviewing the proposal while PSC has tabled its recommendation to Cabinet for review and approval.

But the Director General of Health, Aiono Dr. Alec Ekeroma is optimistic that the “work to rule” option will not materialize noting “once the disinformation dissipates.”

The disinformation, continued Aiono “will dissipate, with the PSC and

Samoa’s Official Foreign Reserves has now exceeded SAT$1.0 billion (PRESS RELEASE, CENTRAL BANK OF SAMOA)- In May 2023, the country’s official foreign reserve level was recorded at Samoa Tala $1.01 billion, a historical high and reflecting a healthy external position for the Samoan economy to date.

At this level, it was equivalent to 10.3 months of import cover, well above the minimum of 4.0 months of imports of goods that is considered sufficient and adequate for the viability of Samoa’s foreign reserves.

The country’s foreign exchange reserves are largely sourced from the inflow of official aid from Samoa’s development partners as well private sector inflows from tourism receipts, remittances and export earnings to name a few.

The valuable and ongoing assistance from Samoa’s development partners over the years, and particularly the last three years to assist with the Government’s COVID-19 response, the re-opening of Samoa’s international borders since August 2022 and the steady rebuilding of the tourism industry in addition to high private remittances, have contributed notably to the current level of official foreign reserves.

At the same time, given the high global downside risks, uncertainties relating to the pandemic and increasing challenges from external factors (such as the high costs of international commodity prices for imported fuel and food), the Central Bank of Samoa also maintained an adequate administration of Exchange Control measures to cushion significant payment outflows over the last few years.

Approximately 93 percent of the country’s official foreign exchange reserves remain well-diversified across the major reserve currencies, highly liquid and safely secured in various overseas banks, including other major central banks.

The other 7 percent represent the country’s holdings of Special Drawing Rights (SDR) and Reserve Fund Position with the International Monetary Fund. Consistent with its mandate, the Central Bank will continue to prudently manage these holdings of foreign exchange reserves and ensure it is maintained at an adequate level to facilitate the country’s international obligations.

Health Sector, PSC & Medical Doctors marches on with negotiations

By: Leota Marc Membrere

Talks of a potential strike by the Samoa Medical Association, (SMA) may have been put to rest following a 3 hour meeting between the Ministry of Health, (MoH) Management and SMA last Friday.

Instead, the SMA members would resort to a "work to rule" as a compromise, according to the Director-General of Health, Aiono Dr. Alec Ekeroma.

But in the meantime, negotiations continue between the Health Sector Management, Public Service Commission, (PSC) and MoH.

The latest developments are outlined by Aiono in an exclusive, Question and Answer interview via email on Wednesday.

Published verbatim are the MoH's responses to questions posed by the Savali News.

1. SAVALI NEWS (SN) - Regarding the Doctor's Strike, the Samoa Medical Association has "shelved" their possible strike until the end of this week while they await PSC to come back to them with a new proposal. Should the SMA address their grievances through to MoH as the Prime Minister voiced in Parliament last week instead of going straight to PSC?

that the process is for the SMA to discuss concerns with the MoH. The MoH management met with the SMA last Friday for three hours explaining and clarifying the PSC position but also to listen to concerns from the hospital doctors and those who work in the sector.

2. SN - If the doctors go on strike are there any contingency plans in place for the hospital? What actions will the MoH take?

DG - It has not been termed a strike but a "work to rule" which meant working 8am-4pm Monday to Friday. We have had meetings discussing contingency plans. I cannot reveal all the plans. The first one however will be to notify the public, as we did during COVID19 closure, to present to hospitals during working hours and reserve the after-hours for urgent cases. There will be doctors on duty to care for urgent cases and emergencies.

3. SN - What is the exact view of MoH

Doctors Strike Out Work to Rule In

“ It has not been termed a strike but a work to rule which meant working 8am-4pm Monday to Friday

Aiono Dr. Alec Ekeroma
DIRECTOR-GENERAL OF HEALTH

in regards to salary/overtime grievances raised by the SMA? The association has raised the issue is not all doctors. But, the point they wish to raise is that there have been doctors who are still sitting on the same salary since they started 5/10 years ago.

DG - But I don't believe the doctors will work to rule once the disinformation dissipates. It will dissipate, with the PSC and the Ministry continuing to communicate that there has been no change to the salaries and overtime conditions for the doctors who are not on contracts. Most of the doctors on contracts will have a pay increase, some by about $50K. Only about five doctors on contracts will have a reduction in pay as they will not be able to claim high overtime hours but will receive Responsibility Allowances of up to 60% that is paid with their salaries every fortnight.

We will be advertising for six overseas specialists, approved by the Health Practices Advisory Committee and announced by the Hon Minister in parliament to assist our workforce to reduce overtime work hours for safety and quality and to train our local doctors. We need to address the postgraduate training and specialization of doctors and nurses in the various fields of need.

The PSC review is ongoing and the Ministry will be using the opportunity to review and advocate for the wages of doctors, nurses and other workers in the Ministry, based on the principles of fairness and guided by the policies of PSC and to what our country can afford.

PSC gives doctors 7 days to consider negotiated proposed offer

By: Leota Marc Membrere

The Public Service Commission (PSC) Chairman Nonu Lemauga Saleimoa Vaai has clarified that they are awaiting Cabinet approval of a proposal to address compensation, allowances, salaries issues raised by the Samoa Medical Association, (SMA).

In an exclusive, Question and Answer interview via email on Wednesday, Nonu clarified that 7 days for Doctors to consider the negotiated proposed offer or consider Service Agreements.

Published verbatim are the PSC's responses to questions posed by the Savali News.

1. SAVALI NEWS (SN) - What is the update of the negotiations of PSC and MoH to complete the merger? Is there a time frame for it to be completed?

PSC CHAIRMAN (PC) - Awaiting Cabinet approval of the proposed offer following negotiations with MoH as voiced in Parliament by Minister of Health.

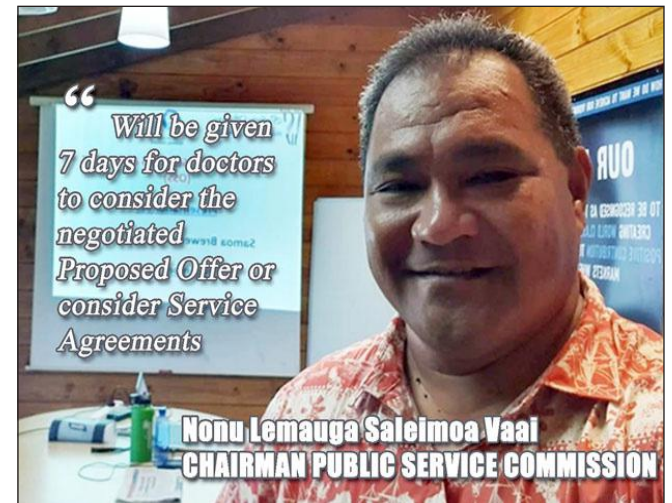

2. SN - Will PSC give time to the doctors to go over the merger, or will PSC push through with it soon?

PC - Will be given 7 days for doctors to consider the negotiated proposed offer or consider Service Agreements - mainly for Senior doctors who would opt to go private and work contracted hours at a negotiated rate with MoH to assist staff shortage.

3. SN - Should SMA have brought their grievances straight to MoH to bring to PSC instead of directly to PSC as the Prime Minister voiced in Parliament last week?

PC - That's the protocol mentioned by P.M. The SMA have held meetings with MoH then MoH to PSC. As mentioned before, SMA wrote to PSC and were invited to a meeting with PSC. SMA were advised in meeting to liaise directly with MoH as a number of SMA senior members are also MoH Management - Heads of Units

4. SN - If PSC following the merge four years ago executed the proposed changes under the Public Service Commission Act 2004 would the situation be as it is now?

PC - Would have helped a lot today administration wise had the merger took place 4 years prior as it is today.

PSC, MoH and Medical Doctors applauded talks.

He is delighted to note that all parties have come to the table with one intention to ensure that quality health care for the public is not interrupted.

"It would be amiss for me if I do not publicly applaud the PSC, Ministry of Health and the Samoa Medical Association for coming to terms," complimented the Minister. "The Government as the service provider is doing everything possible with the resources available to ensure that quality of health is available regardless.

With the same token, the Health Minister stressed that it is the duty and responsibility of the medical fraternity to serve the public.

Valasi acknowledge that the present predicament was inherited by the Government of the Day when amended legislation approved by Parliament in 2019 authorized the return of the Health Sector into one Ministry. Prior to 2019, there were two authorities in the Health Sector which included the Ministry of Health and the National Health Services, (NHS)

However, legislative regulations needed for medical staff to be returned under government or the Public Service Commission was not addressed. As a result, the former NHS staff, (doctors, nurses and medical staff) remained paid under NHS lucrative rates.

The oversight has cost taxpayers thousands of tala in compensation, overtime and allowances for medical staff.

But the PSC under new management has since taken notice and have started addressing the issues which prompted the current review and negotiations with the MoH and the SMA.

"Government is not pointing fingers," clarified Valasi. "As the Minister in charge and responsible for the health security of the nation, Governments' primary objective is to ensure quality health care and treatment is at the disposal of all and every resident."

"I have confidence that whatever the outcome, the final decision will be made by the authorities in charge based on best interest of the people," added Valasi.

He humbled himself by apologizing to the medical professionals if his recent public statements in parliament may have discredited their loyal services to the people.

"As your Minister and leader of our Health Sector, hard decisions must be made regardless of the consequences and I apologize if this was misinterpreted by our medical professions," he concluded.

Japan aids Samoa in waste management efforts

By: Jasmine Netzler - Iose

Early this week Japan's Ambassador to Samoa presented the Samoa Recycling and Waste Management Association with four vehicles that will aid in the organisation's efforts to a greener and cleaner Samoa.

Three dump trucks and a fork loader were officially handed over to the association to assist in their waste management efforts across the country on Monday morning at Tafaigata Landfill where SRWMA's office is located.

Ambassador Keisuke Senta in his address said the vehicles were funded under Japan's Grant Assistance for Grass-Roots Human Security Projects (GGP) for a total of SAT346,000.

The vehicles formerly used by Japanese local public organisations, underwent a meticulous reconditioning process to ensure their optimal performance and functionality he said.

The assistance further strengthens the ties between the two nations and prompts Japan's commitment to promoting recycling and environmental education.

"Japan's commitment in promoting recycling and environmental education is unwavering," the Ambassador stressed.

And, as a global leader in sustainable practices, Japan has consistently demonstrated its dedication to addressing environmental challenges.

"But providing these vehicles to SRWMA, Japan aims to support and enhance Samoa's waste management and recycling efforts," he closed.

The tools will serve as very valuable tools according to the Vice President of SRWMA Silafau Iosefo Sio assisting their society in their waste collection work.

He said the association is also working tirelessly in many other projects to ensure waste is managed and controlled across the country.

Silafau revealed that SRWMA was currently working on trialing the recycling of bottles into headstones.

But it is being trialed and when that is finalised will look at extending the project to local community for any interest.

The society that aims for sustainable recycling and acceptable waste management practices currently have two containers on site at Tafaigata filled with plastic bottles scheduled once fully filled to be shipped to Australia for recycling.

This is according to the Vice President, a pledge that aims at the collection of 1.5million plastic bottles for recycling with this overseas recycling company.

The first shipment has already left Samoa while two containers are standing on site, one already filled and the second close to being filled up but according to a member of the organisation their society has already over exceeded the 1.5million pledge.

Minister of Natural Resources and Environment Honourable Toeolesulusulu Cedric Schuster in his address revealed that waste management is a major issue in the country.

He reminisced in his early years in the environmental sector when Vaitoloa was the dumping area.

It was not only after he had entered to into the sector and government at the time were in search of a new location for a landfill because Vaitoloa was already filled up.

The minister said this is how the Tafaigata Landfill had come into being and 100 acres at Tafaigata was allocated specifically for dumping waste.

He acknowledged the government of Japan and their efforts in assisting Samoa in its fight against waste and also noted the various efforts currently being spearheaded by his ministry to assist in addressing waste management in Samoa.

But the Minister also expressed his gratitude to SRWMA for taking the initiative in this area and identifying opportunities for managing waste and recycling for a greener Samoa.

He closed of saying that MNRE would be working closely with villages to ensure improvements in rubbish collection because "we want to see less waste" and ensure Samoa stays a happy and beautiful place.

Japan's Grant Assistance for Grass-Roots Human Security Projects (GGP) aims to support small-scale projects directly benefitting the grass-roots level as well as contributing to the socio-economic development of the Independent State of Samoa.

Samoaan chicken farmers praise China assistance

By: Leota Marc Membre

China's free range chicken programme is fast being picked up by local farmers across the country.

Recently, Savali caught up with Samon chicken farmer Taftitoala who was all praise of the Government of the People's Republic of China after he received his birds and formula feed to further develop his chicken farm.

The 55-year-old Faapili Lano Aile was one of 56 farmers who received 7 chicks and 5 kilos of formula feed from the Samoa China Agricultural Technical Aid Project (SCATAP).

He told this newspaper he raises Samoan chickens however this opportunity means he can expand his range and is delighted about what is in store for him in the future.

"I first and foremost give thanks to God for this day," he says. "I thank the Government of China by bringing this project to our country to help families, organisations, and churches."

He praised the project and commended the leader of the project Dr. Jim Liu for the thorough explanation about the program and the about free-range chickens.

Mr Aile spent no money during the programme and claims he is now reaping the benefits of joining.

His next plans include raising the chickens and building the numbers enough for him to sell and earn an income and so he can rely less on imported chicken.

Dr. Jim Liu was happy about the success of the project under SCATAP Phase 5 which also serves as a way to promote free range chicken in the country

Today we are happy to receive 56 farmers, each of them receive 7 chicks and one packet of 5kilos formula feed

Aside from the 56 farmers who received chicks on Wednesday, Dr. Liu says that there are currently 6 model farmers for the free range chicken part of the project.

The model farmers plan to raise up to 1500 chickens.

"We hope this free range chicken value chain could benefit the poultry industry in Samoa," he says.

SCATAP build grower house of 90 m2 and fence for each of the 6 model farmers. The six plantation for free range chicken is at least 1 acre and raising 500 birds at one time. A total of 5752 chicks, 10000 kg formula feed for boilers were distributed to farmers and more than 1000 birds have been marketed or consumed by farmers up to end of June, 2023.

The free-range broilers could reach 1.5 kg in 4 months period. The taste is good and economic return for farmers are encouraging with different funding resources to benefit more people.

SCATAP is extending the free-range chicken technology to more than 100 farmers currently and is ready to cooperate with funding resources to benefit more people.

Samoa Conservation Society marks 10 years

By: Leota Marc Membere

A decade protecting Samoa’s wildlife and native plant species, the Samoa Conservation Society fights on with a celebration last Saturday on 01 July 2023 to mark their 10th year Anniversary.

President of the SCS James Atherton when it was time to say a few words reminisced on the beginning of the group.

Which came to be as a result of a few concerned Samoans and expatriates joining forces to create what SCS is now.

“We felt at the time that there was a niche or opportunity for a new environmental group to focus firmly on action to conserve Samoa’s natural heritage and in particular her highly threatened species and their habitats,” said Mr Atherton.

But, since those initial days SCS has grown from a small group with one project and one staff to six staff, an annual grant income of around half a million tala and projects stretching from Falealupo to Uafato.

Although there were countless lessons from the 10-year journey but Atherton pointed to three very stand out factors;

- Power of partnerships
- Importance of innovation
- Absolute urgency of action

“No society like SCS can succeed without many partnerships at numerous levels. Take tonight’s event for example. So many great organisations have stepped up to sponsor tonight and we thank them all,” he says.

Mr. Atherton thanked all the organisations they have partnered with over the years and to Government Ministries; Ministry of Natural Resources and Environment (MNRE), and the Samoa Tourism Authority (STA).

He also thanked Samoa’s bilateral partners the United Kingdom and New Zealand, and organizations such as Conservation International, Botanic Gardens Conservation, and the South Pacific Regional Environment Programme (SPREP).

Feeling grateful for the ten years the Society has served the nation, the President gave a special thanks to the Society’s Executive Members and staff for their commitment protecting Samoa’s environment.

Held at the National University Fale Samoa at Papaigalagala the work of the society has not gone by without notice from the Government of Samoa according to the Honourable Minister of Natural Resources and Environment Afioga Toeolesulusulu Cedric Schuster in his address at the event.

He congratulated the group for their commitment to service to the country for the past ten years.

“Looking at the people associated with it, it feels more like the organization has been around much longer, especially since I have worked with many of these folks either during their time with MNRE or in the private sector as consultants.”

He also acknowledged the engagement of the younger generation in the work of the society.

According to the minister this gives him hope that SCS will continue to grow stronger over time.

“You have a very impressive donor and project portfolio as well the expertise of your staff. Even MNRE and STA are amongst your partners, in both work and funding support with publishing some of the great books you have produced,” he said.

“I can only encourage you all for another fruitful 10 years to continue the growth and important work on conserving and preserving our natural heritage, as well encouraging the new generation of greenies to join and continue the work.”

The event was well attended by; Government officials, members of the Society, and partners of the Society.

Onomea Productions is the official Miss Samoa pageant organiser

By: Leota Marc Membere

The Onomea Productions has won the bid to be official organisers for the Miss Samoa Pageant for the next 3 years from 2023 to 2025.

The firm takes over from Manaia Events Inc. that has been at the rein of the pageant organising since they took over in 2019 from Sei Events.

Their last staged event was the 2022 Vodafone Miss Samoa Pageant that attracted eight contestants from New Zealand, Los Angeles USA, three representatives from Samoan communities in Victoria, Melbourne, and New South Wales, and representatives from the local community.

Honourable Minister of Tourism Toeolesulusulu Cedric Schuster said the organising of this annual event was initially the responsibility of the Samoa Tourism Authority (STA) until 2014 when tendered out to companies in Samoa.

The new organisers are not new to the scene said the minister. The firm’s services are also well known in designing the guidelines of the competition (mamanu faavae e manumalo ai) in the pageants in Tokelau, Niue, Cook Islands, Miss Samoa New Zealand pageant, Miss Samoa and the Miss Pacific Islands.

In fact, Director of Onomea Productions Vaito’a Peletisala Toelupe was behind the organising of the 1999 Miss Samoa Pageant he elaborated.

The Minister bid the group all the best in their journey ahead as they take on centre stage to deliver a pageant that is uniquely shaped to highlight Samoa’s cultural heritage and the cultural attributes of young tamaitai Samoa.

Onomea Productions is led by Chairperson Leituala Kuiniselani Toelupe Tago, and the Minister of Samoa Tourism Authority.

It was also announced during the event that Digicel Samoa will partner with the group in organizing the pageant.
